Body of missing woman is found in bog Foul play is not suspected

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The body of a missing Paris woman was found Wednesday morning in Greenwood's Sheepskin Bog.

No foul play is suspected.

Rosa Guilford, 78, had been last seen by a relative on Sunday.

On Tuesday her car, a 1997 Mercury Mystique, was found abandoned on a rough, non-maintained section of Sheepskin Bog Road.

The car was found at approximately 3 p.m. by Greenwood Highway Department foreman Alan Seames, who had been inspecting the road to see if a newly constructed beaver dam nearby had caused any flooding.

Seames spotted an abandoned car about 100 yards beyond the town-maintained part of the road. Upon determining that the license plate matched that belonging to the missing woman, he contacted the Oxford County Sheriff's Office, which in turn called in the Maine Warden's Service.

Wardens and tracker dogs then began to search the rugged and wet area near where Guilford's car was found.

The activities were coordinated by a command center set up at the Woodstock Fire Station, and the call went out for volunteers who could be available the following day.

Paris Police Chief David Verrier, who was one of those searching Tuesday evening, described the missing woman as weighing only 80 pounds and suffering from dementia.

But, he said, she regularly walked two miles a day and was believed to be in good physical shape.

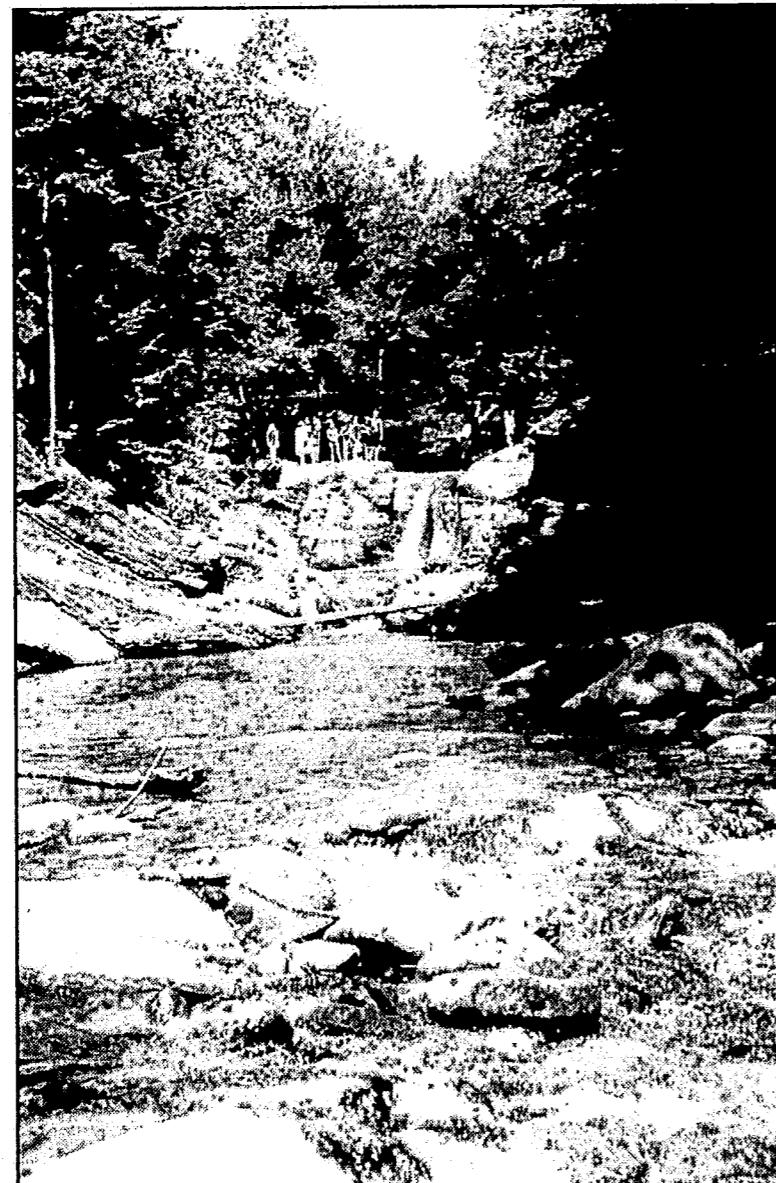

It had rained heavily Tuesday, and that night temperatures fell into the 40s.

At approximately 7 a.m. Wednesday the search effort

Fundraising kicks off for local share of Frenchman's Hole purchase

MORE THAN JUST A SWIMMING HOLE—A swimmer jumps from the ledge at Frenchman's Hole. The land parcel that will be acquired by the state is best known for the waterfall and pool, but it is also valuable to other recreationists and as an ecological buffer zone, according to the Mahoosuc Land Trust. (Photo by Eric Schwarz)

The Mahoosuc Land Trust has announced a $42,000 capital campaign for the purchase of the 385-acre Frenchman's Hole property in Riley Township.

In kicking off the effort, MLT noted the parcel has considerable value in addition to the well-known waterfall and swimming hole. The land also serves as a buffer zone for another nearby preserve, and provides features that attract other outdoor recreationists.

MLT is working collaboratively with the Maine Bureau of Parks and Lands and the Land for Maine's Future Program to raise the funds for the purchase, according to a press release.

The exact purchase price has not yet been disclosed, but will be between $300,000 and 400,000.

Most of that will come from the Land for Maine's Future Program — the $50 million bond issue to purchase important conservation, water access and farm lands in Maine.

The 4.4-acre Bear River Rips property on the Androscoggin River in Newry was also purchased with bond issue funds.

Additional funds will come directly from the Bureau of Parks and Lands. The LMF program requires a local match as part of the funding.

The Albany Improvement Association will be holding its ANNUAL MEETING September 28 at 3 pm at the Albany Town Hall

Buffer to alpine reserve
The Frenchman's Hole property abuts the 27,000-acre Mahoosuc Management Unit, currently public reserved lands.

Public reserved lands are managed for multiple uses. The unit contains a significant section of the Appalachian Trail and the popular loop trail to the AT — the Wright Trail, along Goose Eye Brook.

Mahoosuc Land Trust seeking to raise $42,000

In addition, the Mahoosuc Unit contains a designated state ecological reserve. The reserve includes the most alpine habitat of 13 statewide ecological reserves. Such habitat is rare in Maine.

The Frenchman's Hole property is directly adjacent to the ecological reserve, and will serve as an additional buffer.

The Frenchman's Hole property has other qualities beyond the many pools and waterfalls that residents and visitors enjoy, according to MLT.

The forests were well managed by Roy Newton, the present land owner, and provide important wildlife habitat, especially along the riparian area by the rivers, the release noted.

Cross-country skiers, mountain bikers and hikers enjoy the land in a variety of seasons. Extremely experienced kayakers run the Class 3-4 Bull Branch at high water in the spring.

The property has approximately 1.3 miles of frontage on the Bull Branch and about 4,200 feet on the Sunday River.

There has recently been much research and publicity about the severe erosion problems on the lower Sunday River.

The erosion is caused by a variety of increasing land uses in the watershed including general development, road building, and forestry, according to the land trust.

The addition of the property to the Mahoosuc Unit will offer a significant buffer to the Sunday River from these

Farmland, trails high on local wish list

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Land for Maine's Future Board came to Bethel Tuesday evening to ask western Maine residents about their priorities for land conservation.

The 20 people in attendance offered ideas on everything from preserving farms to assuring jobs for the next generation.

Keeping the farms
Many of those at Tuesday's forum were members of the Mahoosuc Land Trust. Their concern about the fate of the 130-acre Ladd Farm property on Route 2 in Bethel was evident.

Dipping into nature's fall bounty

The weekend's sixth annual Bethel Harvest Fest and Chowdah Cook-off provided an opportunity for young and old to enjoy the fruits of local farmers' and chefs' labors, as well as some fine last-days-of-summer weather.

In a rut: Another former baseball coach gets head butted by a bull moose

By ALISON ALOISIO

For seven years, Jim Osgood of Newry and Don Aylward of Mason shared coaching duties on their sons' recreational baseball team. Now, they share something else.

Both have been attacked by a bull moose and lived to tell about it.

A moose in rut charged the 47-year-old Osgood Saturday morning in Albany, while he was bear hunting. He suffered a broken collarbone and a broken cheekbone, and will likely be out of work several weeks.

But it could have been much worse, if not for his hunting companion and his bear dogs.

The moose struck Osgood from behind as he held his two dogs, Jake and Rebel, by their collars, according to Bethel Police Chief Darren Tripp. Osgood never saw the moose, who tossed him about 20 feet through the air into a clump of bushes.

The moose was looking to do more damage when Osgood's hunting partner, who lives in another part of the state, distracted the animal. The moose turned on him, and he dove under a pickup truck.

The moose then turned back toward Osgood, but at that point the hounds intervened and chased the 900-pound beast away.

Osgood was knocked unconscious for a time, and doesn't remember anything about the attack.

Bethel Rescue, members of the Fire Department and Tripp responded to the incident, which happened between Wild Brook and Lawrence Mountain. (See sidebar)

Osgood was taken to Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway. He is now recuperating at home.

Aylward: "It changes you"

Moose attacks are generally rare, but Osgood joins Aylward as the second area victim within the past three years.

Telstar students: 'Bring back football'

By ALISON ALOISIO

If it were up to Telstar students, Rebels in football uniforms would be hitting the gridiron in the near future. And there might be a few girls among them.

A School Board committee is currently studying the feasibility of bringing a football program back to the school. In late July, a survey was mailed out to high and middle school students asking their opinions on the subject.

The response in favor of football was overwhelming. Of 263 students who replied, 230 said they supported having a program. A total of 588 surveys were mailed, Supt. Dave Murphy told the board Monday.

Murphy said the 50 percent return rate on the surveys was impressive. Ninety middle school students responded, and 173 high school students.

He said he was not aware of any sort of organized campaign to get students to respond favorably.

Of the students who replied, 100 said they would like to participate in the sport. Sixteen girls said they were interested.

Since the idea of a football program was first raised several months ago, some people have expressed concern about the impact it would have on participation in other school sports. Soccer is a particular worry.

OUR VOLUNTEERS REALLY CARE

To the Editor:

Fellow citizens/taxpayers, never having written a letter to the editor, I hardly know where to begin. The political ramifications of the emergency response issue are totally beyond me; however, I understand that certain requirements are made of local emergency rescue groups that mandate records of emergency calls be kept in a separate locked area to assure privacy for the individuals involved. I can relate to that, and I'm sure most people can as well. I can also relate to the fact that our dedicated volunteer personnel, living a distance from the rescue barn, need a place where they can sleep or rest while on call — to ensure a timely response to an emergency.

I have never personally needed the assistance of the rescue team, but members of my family have. We have a group of "professional" volunteers who do a tremendous job and should be applauded for their willingness to provide a necessary service to our area and our loved ones. They provide this service in a kind, caring and professional manner that puts their patients at ease, and comforts them and their families in time of dire stress. The calls for this service are becoming more and more frequent. We do not want to wait up to 45 minutes to more than an hour to get help for our loved ones. That is what could happen if we do not support our local rescue unit by providing them with the facilities they need to comply with state or federal mandates.

Although other units located further away may be as professional as ours, ours really cares about each of us as individuals. I have seen this firsthand, and will never forget how much it meant to me to have the rapid response and the professional, yet loving, care given to members of my family. Please, please vote to have the improvements made to our rescue unit facilities — a loved one could be saved by their rapid response.

JOB ON THE LINE

To the Editor:

In a previous letter I urged Maine people to look beyond the ads promoting a casino in Sanford and to get the facts so that they can make the right vote in the November referendum. Now, let's look at the ad statement, "10,000 new jobs."

At first glance it sounds great. But is it true? Two thousand of those jobs are for the construction of the casino and because a "sweetheart deal" has been worked out by the unions, only union labor can be used. This prevents good Maine firms, who are not unionized, from even bidding on the project. If the casino is approved, all these jobs will go to big labor from out of the state.

What then about the rest of the jobs? Most of these are service industry jobs, housekeeping, restaurant, etc., and if Maine people are hired they will be the experienced workers already employed in Southern Maine in the local inns, motels, bed and breakfasts, restaurants, bars and convenience stores. This is because these businesses can't compete with all the glitz surrounding this new labor market. Casinos want their patrons to eat, sleep, drink and shop right next to the slots and gaming tables so that they get every last penny. What we should be talking about is the net gain or loss of jobs for Maine workers, something the ads are silent about.

Please get the facts, do the homework, and vote in November for what is best for all the people of Maine.

WALK FOR FOOTBALL 2003

To the Editor:

Walk for Football 2003 is a fundraiser sponsored by the Dixfield Recreation Football Boosters. We hope to raise at least $10,000 with the help of all our football players, cheerleaders, parents, community and special friends. The money will be raised to go toward the Buckfield/Dixfield Cougars Youth Football Programs.

Local youths at Telstar Middle School who play for the Cougars football team are Terry Gordon of Greenwood (#3), Gavin Broomhall of Greenwood (#84) and Ben Rosenberg of Woodstock (#85).

The walk will take place on Sunday, Oct. 12, with registration from 9 to 10 a.m. at the Dixfield Fire Station on Main Street, just after the lights on the left. There will be a two-mile loop around Dixfield. Everyone is welcome to walk with us. Sponsor sheets are available at local business in both Dixfield and Buckfield.

Several local pageant contestants will also take part in the walk:

Kayla Norton from South Paris, Miss Oxford County 2003, who was awarded a college scholarship. She has entered the Miss Teen Maine Pageant and is a varsity cheerleader at Oxford Hills Comprehensive High School.

Ashley Pike is the runner up for Miss Oxford County 2003, and was voted by the other contestants as Miss Congeniality.

Andrea Owens of Oxford is the Got Milk Celebrity. "The Got Milk Girl," she ran against 38,000 other people nationwide. She was Miss Oxford County 2002. She went to Australia with the U.S. Women's Basketball Team (girls 18 and under from all over the U.S.) She had to raise $4,500 to get there, and brought home a bronze medal. She is now running for Miss Maine in November, and attending college in Maine.

The Dixfield Rec. Football Boosters started raising money two years ago for the Dixfield Cougars Youth Program, which has been very successful. The Youth Program won their first two games of the season, against Portland 36-14, and Old Orchard Beach 28-0. Youth football coaches are Hart Daley, Scott F. Blaisdell, Benjamin McCollister, Shawn O'Leary, Randy Deroche and Jason Chartier.

We have had donations from Boise Cascade Office Products for the sponsor sheets, Hannaford for some refreshments, Wal-Mart oranges for pit stop, and cakes decorated by Susan Gordon.

The Dixfield Rec. Football Boosters are still in need of 15 gallons of water, 400-5 oz. cups and 10 gifts for prizes. If you or your business can help us with these items we would appreciate it. Please call Susan between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. at 824-3336 or leave a message.

Please join us on our "Walk for Football 2003." There will be photo opportunities to have your picture taken with the celebrity/celebrities of your choice. For more information see sponsor sheets, or call Susan at 824-3336.

increasing land uses in Riley and Newry.

In Newry, the year around population has increased 46 percent in the past 20 years, and the seasonal population has exploded, the release said.

The 385 acres will be owned and managed by the Bureau of Parks and Lands as part of the Mahoosuc Management Unit.

MLT said that because of the significant public use and management, it is better the state, rather than the local land trust, own the property.

A cooperative management agreement will be developed between MLT and the State whereby MLT will receive a yearly stipend to help with the management.

Of the $42,000 capital campaign, $35,000 will go directly to the acquisition of the property. The balance of $7,000 will go for the direct expenses involved in the capital campaign, including printing and mailing, telephone, and staff, and to general operating expenses of MLT.

All donations to the capital campaign are deductible to the full extent of the law, because Mahoosuc Land Trust is a not-for-profit organization, according to MLT.

Volunteers are needed for the fundraising effort. Anyone interested should call the land trust office at 824-3806.

The farm is currently for sale. "The Mahoosuc Land Trust is in anguish over how we can save it," said Steve Wight of Newry.

Tim Glidden, LMF staff director, agreed that it was an important parcel.

"It's really a gateway to the town," he said.

But, he said, the farm conservation portion of the program "is not as far along" as other efforts.

So far, Glidden said, LMF's work on preserving farmland has generally amounted to buying a portion of land from a working farmer, providing him some money.

"But that just postpones the sale," he said.

Wight agreed. "You can't save the farm without saving the farmer," he said. "It has to be worked."

George LaPointe, chairman of the LMF board, and also the state commissioner of marine resources, described an arrangement in his town of Palmer that keeps a local farm working.

Twenty families buy, in effect, annual shares in the farm, and get food in return, he said.

Linear parks

Other ideas offered to the board included a regional park, as well as a "linear park," which would encompass recreational trails.

The trail along the Parkway in Bethel was cited as an example. Glidden said LMF does pay for easements for such projects.

Marcel Polak of Woodstock said that when a group such as MLT considers a costly project, the local match required by LMF can still be prohibitive.

LMF tries to preserve farmlands through the purchase of development rights.

But Glidden cited an 8,000-acre project in Parsonsfield. That town put up $150,000 to help preserve a commercial forest area, as well as public access to it. Supporters also went after federal funds and other resources.

That, said Glidden, shows what can be accomplished "when a community is aligned around a common vision."

Several in the group said they favored community discussion of an overall vision for conservation and land use in general.

But State Rep. Arlan Jodrey (R-Bethel) said it was also important to encourage economic development, to keep young people from leaving the state to look for work.

"That's a piece of the puzzle that seems to get set aside when we talk about this," he said. "I don't hear that happening in this area."

The meeting concluded with a suggestion from Dick Walthers of Otisfield that LMF provide small towns a "blueprint" for land preservation efforts.

He said if towns do not have a local organization such as MLT, citizens can be uncertain how to go about saving land parcels.

LMF history

The LMF program was created in 1987, in response to concerns over the loss of critical natural areas and wildlife habitat, as well as traditional access to undeveloped lands for hunting, fishing and outdoor recreation.

To date, the program has protected more than 130,000 acres in the state. A $50 million bond issue approved in 1999 provides funding.

The program also seeks to protect farmlands through purchase of development rights, and public access to water.

In this area, the Bear River Rips canoe launch on the Androscoggin River in Hanover and the pending acquisition of Frenchmen's Hole are examples of LMF work, done in cooperation with local organizations.

Briefly

Boards recommend yes votes

BETHEL — The town Board of Selectmen and Budget Committee are both recommending that voters approve the two local items on the ballot for Nov. 4's statewide referenda. Taken together the two items would authorize spending $158,000 from the town's undesignated fund balance. The larger calls for using $150,000 to renovate and expand the town's ambulance barn. This is the second time the matter will be put to vote. At Town Meeting in June voters rejected (on a 314-314 tie vote) the proposal. At that time the money for the project was expected to come from borrowing, but higher-than-expected town revenues would now make it possible for the project to be paid for from surplus. The votes to recommend were: selectmen, 4-1; Budget Committee 6-2. The remaining $8,000 from surplus would be used to relocate — 600 feet to the west — the intersection of the Taylor-Smith Road and Route 26. Supporters contend moving the intersection would make it safer, by increasing sightlines. The board votes on this question were: selectmen, 5-0; Budget Committee, 6-1 (with one abstention).

Another special Town Meeting set

WOODSTOCK — Selectmen Tuesday set a date for another special Town Meeting to consider the offer of a $20,000 gift toward the renovation of the town's old fire station. The meeting will take place Oct. 7 at 6:30 p.m. at the Town Office. At a special meeting Sept. 16, residents rescinded an earlier March vote that had put the station up for sale. The proceeds had been intended to go toward an addition on the current fire station, but no one offered a bid. A donor then offered the $20,000, but a misunderstanding led town officials to believe that money was meant to go toward the addition. They wrote the warrant for the Sept. 16 meeting to reflect that. But they learned just prior to the meeting that the donor intended the funds be used to renovate the old station for use as a community/recreation center. The article to accept the gift had to be voted down, because the wording was incorrect. The new meeting will consider a reworded article.

Former deputy dies in car crash

OXFORD — A former Norway police officer and deputy sheriff was killed last Thursday in a car crash on Route 26. Donald F. Guilford Sr., 78, of Oxford was turning left onto Route 26 from Fore Street when he was struck by Sharon McCollet, 52, of Gardiner, who was traveling north. Guilford died at the scene. His passenger, Sharon Martel, 59, of Oxford was critically injured and was taken to Central Maine Medical Center in Lewiston by helicopter. McCollett was taken to Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway, in stable condition. The accident closed Route 26 for almost five hours. Its cause is still under investigation.

Gould reunion starts Friday

BETHEL — The Gould Academy Alumni Weekend will take place Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the school. Activities will include a reception, reunion class dinners, awards, and sports events. For a complete schedule, see page 8.

'Pynelis' signing in Andover

ANDOVER — A book signing for Bob Spidell's "The Pynelis Journals" will take place Saturday, Oct. 11 at 1:30 p.m. at the Andover Public Library. Spidell will give a 30-minute presentation about the journals, which tell the story of a prominent Boston family's seasons at their summer home, Pynelis. Spidell transcribed more than 1,000 handwritten pages into a 500-page book, that also includes photos, maps and documents. The book is offered for sale at $35. For more information, call 392-4841.

Rabies on rise in Lewiston area

LEWISTON — Maine Health officials are seeing a rise in rabies cases in at least one county. Androscoggin reported 10 cases last year — but there have already been 15 cases with more than three months to go this year in that county. Statewide, health officials say the number is up to 60. A total of 67 cases of rabies were catalogued in Maine last year. Most of the cases in Androscoggin County have involved raccoons, in some cases attacking family pets. Health officials say it's critically important that dogs and cats are current on their rabies shots. In Lewiston, four people are receiving vaccinations after they touched a rabid raccoon. In Lisbon, a rabid skunk attacked a dog twice. And the animal control officer for Lisbon and Sabattus was also attacked by a rabid skunk.

Mills seeking new workers

BERLIN, N.H. — "Help Wanted" signs have gone up at the pulp and paper mills in Berlin and Gorham, just two years after the mills shut down for nine months. More than 850 workers lost their jobs when American Tissue filed for bankruptcy two years ago. But former Gov. Jeanne Shaheen and local leaders sought a buyer, and Fraser Papers of Stamford, Conn., stepped in. Fraser eliminated 140 jobs when it reopened the mills in June 2002. In the meantime, some laid-off workers had retired or found other jobs. Fraser has exhausted the call-back list of former employees and is seeking 30 new workers, advertising locally and in other mill communities in Maine. Meanwhile, the North Country Workers Assistance Center, which opened a few months after the mills shut down to help the laid-off workers, will close its doors next week. The center's director says it's no longer needed — and that's good news.

Weather good for pot growers

PORLTAND — This summer's wet and warm weather has helped Maine's marijuana farmers to produce a bigger-than-usual crop. And that's keeping drug agents busy. In the past month, Maine Drug Enforcement agents have located and destroyed nearly 500 marijuana plants in seven communities in Oxford, Franklin and Androscoggin counties alone. The agents use airplanes and global-positioning devices in their searches. But even before those raids, police across Maine had already destroyed 5,400 pot plants, 70 percent more than they had at the same time last year. Police say the plants would have yielded more than a ton of marijuana and been worth an estimated $4 million on the street if they had reached maturity.

Woman dies in kayak accident

NEWPORT — A Newport woman died after falling out of her kayak and becoming pinned against the grate of a dam on Sebasco Lake Saturday afternoon. Police say Joyce Packard, who would have turned 53 on Monday, was taken to a local hospital after the accident and pronounced dead. Packard was kayaking with another woman in her boat and her husband in a second kayak when the current pushed their boats against a dam at the North Street bridge on the central Maine lake. Police, who were called to the scene at about 2:40 p.m., were able to rescue Packard's husband. The other woman had gotten out of her boat and was safe. Newport Police Lt. Gary Morin said Joyce Packard was pinned against the dam grate for about 20 minutes before her body could be recovered.

From the Bethel Police Log:

Wednesday, Sept. 17

At 6:40 p.m. police responded with Bethel Rescue for a seven-week-old infant with difficulty breathing.

Friday, Sept. 19

At 2:01 a.m. police assisted a state trooper in Albany for a 911 hangup call. The officer helped the trooper with an intoxicated male at the scene.

Saturday, Sept. 20

At 3 a.m. police stopped a subject on the Flat Road for excessive acceleration. He had an odor of an intoxicant, and was given a field sobriety test. After failing the tests, Jeremy Smith, 26, of Bethel was arrested for OUI.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log. It lists all cases of adults being arrested or issued a criminal summon in the 10 days prior to the newspaper's publication, but does not include all reports of other police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies.

PUBLIC HEARING

Pursuant to Title 28 MRSA 252 — a notice is hereby given that a Public Hearing will be held on October 6, 2003 at the Bethel Town Office to consider a Liquor License renewal from Pat's Pizza located on 37 Mayville Rd. Public comment will be heard at that time. Prior to the hearing date written comment may be issued to the Bethel Town Office.

AND THEY DO WINDOWS—Denny Wheeler and his crew recently completed a paint job on the Cole Block in Bethel. Here, Howard Parsons works on the inside of a window while Tracy Gordon paints a fire escape. Two sides of the building — the rear and side toward the Northeast Bank — were done this year, at a cost of $15,000. The sections done this season were chosen because they get the most sun and were in greatest need of repainting, Wheeler said. The other two sides were to be painted next year, but after some residents said the front should be a priority, he also painted the lower part of that side. The cost will come from next year's funds, according to Scott Cole, town manager.

Moose

Aylward was attacked by a bull moose at night outside his home in Mason, while walking his dog.

That incident also took place during mating season. A cow moose was nearby when the attack happened.

Bull moose in rut can be much more aggressive than other times of the year.

The one that charged Aylward came after him repeatedly. Aylward finally dragged himself back to his house, and he was many months recovering from his injuries. He suffered broken bones and a punctured lung.

On Sunday, he called Osgood to express sympathy and offer encouragement.

Aylward said Monday Osgood was a little better off in his attack because he was immediately unconscious, and did not know what happened to him.

The moose that went after Aylward was estimated to be a couple of hundred pounds heavier. But, said, Aylward, "A few pounds here or there doesn't make much difference. It hurts."

He said the experience has altered his attitude about being outdoors during rut season. "It's changed me. I don't go out at night," he said.

He said people should be mindful that this time of year, "That moose isn't Bullwinkle. It's Bullwinkle with an attitude."

Aylward also thinks the state should make a rule for that select group of Mainers who have been attacked by a moose.

"We ought to get a moose hunting permit to get back at him (the moose). Look what I had to put up with for him."

The week-long season begins here in mid-October.

Aylward also noted the coincidence that both baseball coaches from that Bethel team had been attacked by moose.

"I guess they don't like baseball," he said.

Back to the woods

Osgood said Tuesday he's feeling a little better. There had been some concern he might need surgery on his cheekbone, but he's now learned that won't be necessary.

He said the experience won't discourage him from going back out in the woods to hunt again. And he doesn't think he'll be looking over his shoulder any more than before.

But, he said, his hunting partner, Tom, may suffer more psychological effects because he witnessed everything that happened.

Osgood hopes to be out again soon, at least to ride around with his hunting friends.

But his wife, Marjorie, has some advice for him.

"Stay in the truck," she said.

Fire Department's new rescue sled proves its worth

By ALISON ALOISIO

The rescue of Jim Osgood from the Albany woods was made a lot easier by the Bethel Fire Department's new rescue sled, according to Police Chief Darren Tripp.

"It was as clean and quick an extraction from the woods as I've ever seen," said Tripp, who was among the first on the scene.

The sled is equipped with ATV-like tires, and rescuers used the sled and assistant BFD chief Mike Bennett's ATV to pull Osgood out.

Tripp said there was brief consideration given to calling in a rescue helicopter, but the terrain and weather prevented it.

It was raining hard when rescuers arrived. The attack took place around 7:30 a.m., Tripp estimates.

The only other alternative to the sled would have been a very rough ride in an SUV, he said.

Tripp said it took less than an hour from the time the accident was called in to the time Osgood was out of the woods and into an ambulance.

More than a dozen rescue personnel and Fire Department members responded and worked very well as a team, Tripp said.

Football

On the survey, 69 students said they currently play another fall sport, but might play football if it were offered. Thirty-one students who do not participate in a fall sport, at all said they would play football.

Telstar High School also offers field hockey, golf and cross-country running in the fall.

Three middle school students currently play in the Buckfield/Dixfield Youth Football Program. They are, Terry Gordon and Gavin Broomhall of Greenwood, and Ben Rosenberg of Woodstock.

Plenty of comments

In addition to the yes/no portion of the survey, space was also provided for student comments.

Those in favor of football commonly cited the following reasons: it would bring the school and community together and improve school spirit; many people from the community would attend games; it would get more students involved in an activity and "get them off the streets;" and it would motivate more students to keep their grades up.

Those opposing football cited some of the following reasons: it's too expensive and dangerous; it would take funds from other sports, activities and academics; and it would take players away from soccer.

One student said he/she would support football if Telstar also added a girls' soccer program, "so it is equal for both boys and girls."

Telstar has had football before, but it was discontinued in the early 1980s because of lack of numbers.

At that time, soccer had also recently been introduced at the school, according to district officials. The enrollment at Telstar then was greater than it is now.

Work continues

The football committee will continue its work for about another month, board chair Kelly Scotti said Monday. Information on costs and other related issues is still being gathered.

The committee hopes to have a recommendation for the board in late October.

If the recommendation is favorable, the next step would likely be to bring in a wider representation from the community to further the process, Murphy said. A final decision would follow.

is at Mt.

Valley High School in Rumford this weekend. Friday evening and all day Saturday businesses and organizations from throughout the area will be on display. The town of Hanover, in cooperation with Gardner Roberts Memorial Library, will have a booth we think will be interesting and informative. The chairman of the Hanover booth is deputy clerk Kelly Crockett.

The Hanover Town Office will be closed on Thursday, Sept. 25, because of workshops. Clem will be at a Bureau of Motor Vehicles Workshop in Columbia Falls and Kelly will be at a Registrar of Voters Workshop in Augusta.

The Town Office was closed on Tuesday after 9 a.m. last week to allow town officials the opportunity to attend the County Commissioners Hearing in response to a petition from 10 Hanover residents who wanted to overturn the selectboard's decision to not maintain South Shore Road for winter use. Four South Shore Road residents and an attorney spoke in favor of maintaining the road. A group of about 30 Hanover citizens attended the hearing with several speaking against the road being open in the winter. Most of those who signed the petition did not attend. The county commissioners, after hearing the testimony given, chose not to make a decision until their next meeting in October, to enable them the opportunity to view the South Shore Road.

The River Valley Growth Council will hold a meeting of its members on Oct. 1 at the Hanover Town Office starting at about 5:30 p.m. Citizens of Hanover have been invited to attend the meeting. Jim List is recovering at home following surgery in a Boston hospital.

Dave Worcester has been going to Stephens Memorial Hospital for tests.

The Oxford County Bicentennial Quilt will have a square completed by Hanover. The square was designed by Gail Parent, and most of the needlework is being done by Brenda Devoe. Others on the committee are Lynn Ramsey, Brenda Gross and Kelly Crockett. Oxford County will celebrate 200 years in 2005.

Sept. 8, and have been busy ever since. With Civil Air Patrol, American Legion, 40 and 8, granddaughter wedding, firewood deliveries and trying to catch up on a month of chores around the house, there hasn't been much time to catch our breath. We were naturally happy to get home and view the changes. Weeds took over our garden, and the raccoons destroyed just about all our corn while we were gone. We do have a beautiful crop of tomatoes as well as a good harvest of buttercup squash left, though.

Otherwise, we quickly adapted to being back in the "boondocks." Snuffy helped our adjustment by harassing a bear in the woods between our barn and the road. The bear must have tried to climb six or eight different trees over the course of five or ten minutes, while Snuffy kept barking around and around the bear. I think I got at least one good picture of the bear, while trying not to get too close to it. Although the bear was small, probably around 150 pounds, it was big enough that I didn't want to test its tolerance of both a barking dog and a nosy human in its immediate vicinity. I hope Snuffy bothered the bear enough that it won't come around our house again for a while. I really don't want to shoot the bear as long as he/she doesn't do significant damage around here.

Last Saturday, Mona's granddaughter, Monica and Matt got married at the Methodist Church in Bethel.

Alder River Grange will have a Roast Beef Supper on Sept. 27, with veggies, salads and pies. There will be no baked beans this time.

The fish chowder supper has been moved to Oct. 11. I gave a schedule to someone last week with the old date.

The rest of the supper schedule is: Oct. 11, fish chowder; Nov. 8, turkey supper, with any veteran having a free supper.

Jack and Lucy Nordahl were at the Common Ground Fair on the 19th. They drove over on the 18th and camped at a campground. They enjoyed it very much with lots to see and taste.

Do not forget the East Bethel School Reunion on Sept. 28 at 2 p.m. There will be refreshments and coffee.

Have a nice week. God Bless.

Andover

Andrea
Savitz, president of the Andover Service Circle,

has kindly given me an update on the good works that the ASC has done this year. There was a 25 percent increase in the sale of the Birthday Calendars for 2004, and an increase in membership. Members, including new member Elizabeth Lozier, joined veteran member, Evelyn Bodemer in walking through the night for the American Cancer Society, a charity that helps local residents. The circle contributed toward the purchase of uniforms for the Andover Elementary School's basketball uniforms after member Ronda Jodrey informed them of the need. Member Robin Lincoln, is making quilts for Andover newborns. Member Peggy Madigan continues as the community liaison seeing that baked goods arrive at funeral receptions upon request. Member Pat Meek is bringing her experience "from away" to the circle and is responsible for upcoming plans for the ASC to have a role on the national "Make A Difference Day," Saturday, Oct. 25. Member Judy Michaud continues to manage most annual projects, including the Community Calendar and Olde Home Days, and still finds time to function as the secretary and historian for the group. Member Sue Mills is ASC's chairperson for an Andover Bicentennial Pancake Breakfast. Additionally, member Kirsten Perham founded the first annual Holiday Dinner for Andover's senior population in 2002.

The Service Circle wishes to thank Barbara Hayden, who is leaving the circle as a full member and joining the circle's auxiliary. Her help on calendar sales was great. If you want to have a lot of fun while fulfilling a vital community role, come to the circle's membership drive on Wednesday, Oct. 8, at 6:30 p.m. at the Andover Public Library. The meeting will be held downstairs in the Children's Library. Get treated to cider, coffee, and donuts while sitting in on an ASC meeting. Laugh a little, learn a little, and decide if ASC membership or auxiliary membership is for you. You can RSVP to Evelyn Bodemer at 392-2371 or Judy Michaud at 392-1221, or just show up. You will find a warm welcome.

On Saturday, Oct. 11 at 1 p.m., Robert Spidell, author of the new book, "The Pynelis Journals," will be at the Andover Public Library to give a thirty-minute presentation on the inside story of the journals. Copies of the book will be on sale for $35, and Mr. Spidell will be available for a book signing from 2 to 4 p.m.

For further information, you can call librarian Janet Far-ington at the library at 392-4841.

Dot Dow is recuperating at Ledgeview in West Paris. Cards and visits would be nice.

I want to thank Barbara Hayden, Molly Glover, David White, Marjorie Stinson, and Eileen Pew for the assistance they have given me lately. I couldn't have managed without them, and I want them to know how much I appreciate them.

The infamous "cat situation" is under control for the moment; as of now we have found homes for 36, received a wonderful "Thank You For Cat Sitting Card," and have hired Duyane Jodrey to be our new animal control officer. The scaredy cats are starting to return; I counted three this weekend, so capturing procedures will be starting up again. If you are interested in adopting, give us a call. See 'ya.

The first day of fall is behind us but summer prevails. The lower areas of Upton have not experienced a frost as yet. In other years the frost covers make an appearance the day after Labor Day. The foliage has begun to change color in the higher areas. Dixville Notch has moderately changed, while in Grafton Notch it was hardly noticeable over the weekend.

The Harvest Fest in Bethel was very enjoyable. Joan Miller's beautiful watercolors were on display. Several Upton residents enjoyed samplings of the chowders. The traditional clam and seafood chowders are delicious. For a change of pace ChoSun's peppy Korean Chowder really tickled your taste buds. It was very good. Variety being the spice of life, all were very tasty.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published by special arrangement with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

I get such a kick out of football. I really do. Only in America can a bunch of oversized men get together in the middle of a field, huddle in a circle then attempt to knock each other's brains out while moving a funny-shaped ball around, pat each other on the butt and get paid millions of dollars to do it. This is a great country.

I must confess, though fascinated by its effect on the American male, I myself really don't understand the game of football. Oh, I understand the basic object of the game, that's easy. One team attempts to get the ball to the end zone while the other team tries to prevent that from happening by jumping all over the team with the ball. Whichever team manages to get the ball to the end zone the most times wins the game. I think it is something like that. That's pretty easy to understand.

What I don't understand is why moving the ball from Point A to Point B is so complicated. To start with, the game is called football, yet the ball, which is really not a ball but a sphere, rarely comes in contact with anyone's feet. There are feet flying all over the playing field, sometimes making contact with players' heads and stomachs or more sensitive areas of the body, but not with the ball.

The only player actually placing his foot on the ball is The Kicker. This guy is brought into the game only once in awhile just to kick the ball. The rest of the time, The Kicker is on the sidelines in a world of his own, seeming unaware that there is even a game going on.

Now I ask you, what kind of a mentality does it take for a man to spend most of the game pacing the sidelines, counting his toes or whatever he does, waiting for a tap on the shoulder? Once he goes into the game he kicks the ball then goes back to pacing the sidelines. What kind of self-esteem does a man have when his only reason to exist is to kick a ball that's not even shaped like a ball, once in awhile? I suppose his paycheck goes a long way in helping his self-esteem.

Then there is The Quarterback, who somehow differs from a Full Back, a Half Back and a Running Back, but I don't know how. The Quarterback is apparently the God of the game and the center of everyone's adulation or hate, depending on whose side you're on. His job seems to be either throw the ball or run with it while 5,000 pounds of boozos try to knock him down.

He's also the guy making the most amount of money and getting all the commercials, which seems a bit odd to me because if he didn't have all those enormous bodies protecting him he'd spend most of the game in a prone position.

The guys who are doing all the protecting you really have to wonder about. I don't know why an adult male in his right mind would want to make a living by placing his body in front of a fast charging 400-pound mad man or two or three whose only purpose in life is to knock the stuffing out of him. All day long, this guy throws himself into harm's way to protect the Quarterback, the one who is getting the most money, glory, girls and commercials. What motivates a man to do that?

I must confess, though fascinated by its effect on the American male, I myself don't understand the game of football

The Pass Receiver seems to have an interesting job. As I see it, the Pass Receiver is supposed to catch the ball when The Quarterback throws it to him. Then he runs all the way down the field while dodging all kinds of guys who are trying to catch him and mangle his legs. All this so he can take the ball into the end zone, spike it on the ground, do a ritualistic dance and then do a lot of high-fiving with his teammates and The Quarterback ends up getting most of the credit.

That ritualistic dance is quite something. Maybe I have a warped sense of humor (okay, I do), but I find it quite amusing to see a 250 or 300 pound man in full padded uniform go through gyrations and fast foot movements with all the finesse of a bull moose in heat on "Dance Fever."

Mr. Macho turns into Disco Dork and everyone thinks it's great. What a game!

What amazes me most about this sacred institution of jocks everywhere is not the game or even the men who play it but the men who watch it. I realize there are some women who watch the game too, but the numbers are small by comparison and the effects are considerably different.

For the men, it's like they are vicariously living an athlete's life. They take this game so seriously that it actually affects their lives and, in some cases, their wives. If a football widow has any hope whatsoever of having a harmonious Sunday evening, she'd better start Sunday morning by praying to the pigskin deity that all her husband's favorite teams will win their games.

Should the Patriots or Steelers end up in the loss column there's no telling what the grieving fan may do. Some men will just go off food and bread for the rest of the day. Some men become more vocal and rant incoherently for hours.

I read about one disgruntled fan who got so upset over his favorite team's loss that he threw his television set out of the window. Unfortunately, he lived on the third floor and the TV went through the windshield of his neighbor's very expensive sports car.

And if the several months of Sunday football is not enough to create a little tension and mayhem in any home, there is always Monday night football to fall back on.

I'm a bit of a football widow myself, but fortunately my spouse doesn't get too carried away with the sport. He does do a pretty good one-man wave when the Patriots score and some pretty heavy cursing when Drew Bledsoe gets sacked, but that's about it.

The way I see it football is actually a pretty dumb game, but it keeps millions of American men occupied on Sunday afternoons so their better halves can actually have some time of their own.

at the Ladies Aid, "Winnie the Pooh" was the theme. Thirty-four ladies attended. (It was a place no man dared to tread.) The food table bordered on "sinful." (We all sinned.)

The Cards and Pool group held their fall breakfast at the Balsam Grand Resort on Sunday morning. Breakfast at the Balsams should be number one on the "Gluttons' List." Chef Phil Learned reigned over the omelet table making two delicious creations at a time. The skill of an artist was seen. World class "Omelet Flipping" was applauded by the observers.

Five bears were seen on Mill Road last week (two mamas and three babies). One night we forgot to close the garage doors. Bruin and cub accepted the invitation, entering and tipping over trashcan storage cans of birdseed and deer food, spreading the contents everywhere. Several claw holes perforated the lids of the containers. Mama bear had treacherous claws. Early Monday morning (1:30 a.m.) we were awakened by the sound of bumping on the side of the house. On inspection later in the morning we found the kitchen window smeared with muddy paw prints and the window box upside down on the ground. Since Officer Friendly retired I have no one to complain to.

Three pileated woodpeckers are working their way around trees at Birch Point. A flock of robins visited the Kenney property. The appearance of waterfowl is another story. Maybe their flights have been delayed. There are very few ducks and geese in the cove. It must be a warm-weather delay.

The "Bird of the Week" is the Gold Shafted Flicker who is busy drilling for ants at the side of the road.

Reports of "Dusting" partridges have been seen on the way to Grafton Notch.

Call to worship was held at the Newry Community Church Sunday morning, Sept. 14, with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The message of the day was: "Can we hear the promise?" from Psalm 19:14, "Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be accepted in thy sight, O Lord my strength and my redeemer," and Proverbs 1:23, "Turn you at my reproofs, I will pour out my spirit unto you, I will make known my words unto you." Scripture reading by Owen Wight, Nancy, etc. A prayer followed, hymns sung, benediction and postlude. Amen.

The beautiful white rabbit who came to see me every day for the last four years was run over by a car driver on the 10th, the full moon, and is now in heaven. I miss him terribly.

The wind is blowing, the leaves are falling, the melancholy days are come, the saddest of the year, of wailing winds and naked woods and meadows brown and sear .. autumn is here.

Retta Berry held a cookout on Sept. 14 for her son Jason's birthday. His wife, Sarah, made the birthday cake. Family and friends from Newry and Bethel attended.

Congratulations to Jason and Sarah Berry on the birth of their daughter, Jordan, born on Sept. 17, 2003 at St. Mary's Hospital in Lewiston, weighing 8 pounds, 9 ounces. Maternal grandparents are Judy Buxton and Buck Buxton and wife Donna Moroco, all of Connecticut. Paternal grandparents are Retta Berry and Ed Powers of Newry and Scott and Rocky Berry of Bryant Pond. Great-grandparents are John and Nancy Wight of Newry and Francis and Mary Lou Berry of Newry and the late Helen Berry.

I was reading Sharon Bourdard's article about the naming of houses and roads and found it amusing. Most of her columns are quite well documented and thoughtful as well. In Vermont they have the Susie Wilson Road that I found rather unique. If I were collecting signs, that would be a good one to acquire, except that the only way to acquire it would be to steal it, and I was brought up to leave other people's property alone and I mostly did, and do, except for apples. Why children do not see taking apples as being stealing I don't know, but we never seemed to. My grandmother had pear trees, as I think I mentioned in my column some years back. The children liked to steal pears; which my grandmother tried to discourage, not because she minded them having the pears but because our summers were never long enough for them to ripen and eating a green one could cause quite a stomachache. Perhaps they were not supposed to ripen, as they were called winter pears. Anyhow, when cooked they were quite delicious and Nana used to can as many as she could of them, and when eaten during the winter they were quite a treat.

Debbie and Owen Brown finally have windows in their house, and as of Wednesday the furnace was mostly in so things are looking up. They were beginning to think that they would not be able to get in before winter. Crystal Lake and Mary Thacker went to the Assemblies of God Women's Retreat in Nashua, N.H., Friday and Saturday of last week. They stayed at the Sheraton-Tara, which they referred to as the castle. I remember going there some years ago and I knew just what they meant. It is a great place to have a retreat but I am not up to going so far even for just a couple of days, especially not for a couple of days. They may call them retreats but what they really should be called are seminars because they entail a series of meetings with a speaker, who has my sympathy. I can't imagine having to do that, not once, but many times over the year. Anyhow, sandwiched in are meals and a bit of recreation time and late night "let's see how late we can stay up and talk and how many snacks we can eat" sharing time. By the time one has to make the long journey back home it is a wonder that anyone can stay awake to drive. I used to get a headache by that time; and, no, I had nothing stronger than soft drink, but all the sights and sounds and the late hours would get to me. It was sort of fun when I was younger but not now. I notice that most of the older women don't go unless they live near Nashua.

The wind is blowing, the leaves are falling, the melancholy days are come, the saddest of the year, of wailing winds and naked woods and meadows brown and sear .. autumn is here.

On Sunday, Sept. 14, 23 family members enjoyed a potluck dinner at Alice and Ken Hoyt's with Beatrice Farnum to celebrate her 91st birthday, which was Monday, the 15th.

Franklin Grange 124 met on Monday, Sept. 15, with 17 members present. It was scrambled officers night. Master, Peggy Blake; overseer, Richard Cole; chaplain, Anna Swan; lecturer, Bertha DeHaas; steward, Alice Hoyt; assistant steward, Jackie Stevens; ladies assistant steward, Yvonne Nowlin; Ceres, Mary Hoover; Pomona, Helvi Cary; Flora, Lucy Robbins; gatekeeper, Russell Yates; secretary, Laura Hutchins; treasurer, Anna Woodworth; executive committee, Olive Risko; CWA, Althea Fish and Richard Felt; pianist, Dot Canwell. The charter was draped for Johnny Howe. Maine State Grange will be held in Lewiston on Oct. 23, 24 and 25. Peggy and Joe Perham were appointed delegates and Olive Risko, alternate to State Grange. Program was as follows: opening thought, Bertha; opening song, "All the Beauty on Earth"; reading, "Beside a Country Road," Peggy Blake; Richard Cole played his banjo and had a sing-a-long; reading, "Country House," Lucy Robbins; Yvonne and Dot played music; Olive Risko, reading, "Nostalgia"; Althea Fish played a couple piano solos; Bertha asked each if they had memories of the county fairs when they were young. The next meeting, Oct. 6, is Agriculture Night. Come dressed as an old farmer. Closing thought was "Thank God for Friends" and closing song, "Bless be the Tie That Binds."

Services at the Baptist Church each Sunday are Sunday School and Adult Bible Fellowship at 9:15 a.m., worship and dinner. They plan to arrive at the inn by 11:30 a.m. and the cost is $12 including tax and tip. Please call Rena at 674-3771 and let her know before Sept. 26 if you plan to attend.

Other new neighbors are Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Irons, who bought Annella Burnham's house. They have started to move in. Mr. Irons does etching on glass.

A moose was spotted in the bog at the bottom of Merrifield Hill. Some visitors from Florida were lucky enough to get a picture.

Mrs. Neiberle thinks the former Mollyockett Antique Store in town looks like a real big birthday cake with yellow and blue frosting.

Dot Cushman had a busy weekend taking care of grandchildren, Annie and Russell, children of Matt and Nancy Cushman. She also had their dog, Riley, and a small terrier belonging to daughter Kristen Inman.

The Woodstock Extension group held a lunch and meeting at Elena and Denise's camp in Grafton on Wednesday.

At the September meeting of the Woodstock Historical Society the following officers were elected: president, Olive Risko; vice president, Annella Burnham; secretary, Elaine Roberts; treasurer, Paul Billings; new trustee, Elena Noyes; chairman of the board, Annella Burnham; vice chairman, Elena Noyes and curator, Larry Billings. Annella Burnham gave a program on the Grand Canyon.

later. All the men were well known and were active citizens in the town. Harlan was a selectman. Our sympathy to all the families and friends. They all will be greatly missed by everyone in this area.

Also, sympathy to the family and friends of Ann Beyer, who passed away recently. Mrs. Beyer's daughter, Carla Phillips, lives here in South Woodstock.

I had a short chat with Norman Perham one day at the post office. He seemed to be doing very well. I hadn't seen him for quite a while.

Jim Mason has been in the hospital for several heart bypasses. He returned home last week and is anxious to get his new home completed. Jim and family had been working on the house when Jim had to go for the bypass. They are all now coming along well on completing it soon.

Thursday night of the Oxford County Fair, Kellie Record and I took Zack Lynch (our grandson and great-grandson) to see the sights. He was in his glory going on rides and loved seeing all the animals, and I mean "all" the animals.

We also attended the Miss Oxford County Fair pageant the same night. Kayla Norton was selected. All the girls did a great job. Sarah Lynch, Mrs. Maine USA, was one of the judges. Several years ago Sarah competed for the pageant at Oxford Fair and was selected first runner up two years.

Quote of the Week: "I've learned that may our life be like arithmetic — friends added, enemies subtracted, joys multiplied and troubles divided."

Greenwood City

What a week this has been. Not much for news.

Albert and Marie Curtis took their grandson, Jason Curtis of Norway, out for a boat ride down to Song Lake. They all had a good time as usual.

Sunday, Jason came up and helped me with some things I needed done. I appreciated the help.

The town crew has done some work on our hill.

Sunday, Ann Payne had her father and mother, Leonas and Fay Holt and his sisters, Edith Gardner and Dolly Verrill, both of South Paris, and Ann Woodworth from Sumner, to celebrate Leonas' birthday.

David Holt took his aunt, Colista Morgan, out for a ride Sunday. She liked that.

Ann Holt went to church Sunday.

Our thoughts and prayers are with the whole Inman family for their loss. We wish there were something we could say or do to make things easier, but know that we can't, just say we're sorry.

Quote for the week: "History wouldn't have to repeat itself if we did a better job listening."

Have a safe and happy week.

West Paris

by Joyce Lamb

The small community of West Paris was saddened by the death of three of its citizens. Harlan Abbott, Vernon Inman and William Aridas were returning from a weekend fishing trip in Greenville when their plane crashed and burned. Vernon Inman and Harlan Abbott were active in town affairs and in organizations. William Aridas and his wife, Virginia, spent summers in their home in North Paris. They all will be greatly missed.

This fall has been seasonally warm with no frosts. We could take a lot more of that and harvest more tomatoes and cucumbers.

At the West Paris Universalist Church on Sept. 28 the guest speaker will be the Rev. Robert Wolf. The organist is Jim Burke. Church starts at 9 a.m. All are welcome.

On Sept. 15 at the Eastern Maine Medical Center an 8 pound, 8 ounce boy was born to Mandy and Mike Melansen. They named him Bruce Allan. He has a lot of black hair. Mother and baby are doing well. Great-grandparents are Cynthia and Sayward Lamb of North Pond.

I am recovering at home after surgery at Stephens Memorial Hospital.

Beryl Bonney and I attended the funeral in Buckfield of Beryl's aunt, Nonie Jones, on Friday.

West Paris

by Bertha DeHaas

This has been the worst week in our town's history. We all are in mourning for the loss of three wonderful and much valued citizens: Vernon Inman, Harlan Abbott and Bill Aridas, who each in his own way contributed to the life of our little town. Vernon and Harlan are alumni of the Agnes L. Gray and West Paris

High School systems. Billy married Virginia Inman (Miriam and Vernon's daughter). Both Vernon and Harlan were highly involved with our Down Hill Derby races, working with the young people, and all were highly involved with the "town affairs."

Vernon was selectman at one time and Harlan was on his second three-year term at the time of his death. They were officers of the West Paris Historical Society. Harlan was president of the Molykett Sportsman's Club and Vernon a member of the Parisians band. Vernon was moderator for years of our Town Meetings. Harlan was president of our Old Home Days Committee. They both were members of our West Paris Fire Department, and Harlan was our constable. I can't think of any town activity that they weren't active in. They shall be greatly missed by all of us.

Our most sincere and heartfelt condolences go out to both the Abbott and Inman families and all connected with them in any way.

Have been friends with these families over the years, from school days on up, especially since coming home to live in 1986. Keeping in touch when they were in Florida and enjoying their company when they came home for the summers. When my Gordon passed away, Miriam and Vernon wired flowers to me from Florida and a wonderful letter that I shall always cherish. I shall miss them forever.

Harlan, too. He worked so hard for this town. He was honest and had the best interest of this town in his heart.

I shall also remember the good times, like the minstrel shows of yesteryear and the Tri-Town shows, also, that they were in. What fun we all had back then. Vernon graduated in 1943 and Harlan was in school with me. They both loved hunting and fishing, and when we all were young, even skiing on Roy Perham's homemade ski jump next door. Cherish the good times. May God Bless you all.

Had a real good crowd for the Ken Fernald concert last Friday night. He did a terrific job. He sounds much like Burl Ives as he sings. If you ever have the opportunity to go to one of his concerts, it is well worth going to. They are free, but if you wish to donate, there is a "freewill offering" taken at intermission. He also has tapes and CDs if anyone is interested.

Noticed several trees wearing their "autumn apparel" right, I forgot to wish my husband Happy Birthday. Whoops. Happy Birthday, David, and many, many more.

Looking forward to Grandparents Day at Waterford Elementary. For all you grandparents that haven't gotten the word, that occurs on Friday, Sept. 26, from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Be there and make your grandkids proud.

Although not out of the woods yet, Gloria Dobson is improving. She is at CMMC for any who want to wish her well. Cards are always welcome, but remember to keep her in your prayers.

Barbara Henley was by this week. Hear that apple picking is just getting underway now. Have seen hordes of pumpkins and squashes adorning steps and lawns. 'Tis getting to be that time of year again.

Albany

by Dana & Sheila Dyke

Greetings and hello from Albany Township. Not much happening in the township this past week. Rather quiet.

Bud Bowden seems to be recuperating from hip replacement quite nicely. He spoke with Dana the other day and amazed Dana that he is riding a stationary bike and doing other exercises. He's been a wonderful neighbor and we hope to see him out and about a bit more now.

If you haven't noticed by now, Franklin and Margaret Barton have a new veggie stand, complete with lights for nighttime gathering. We were driving home a couple of weeks ago in the evening and noticed the lights. They look great. You should stop by and get some of the wonderful veggies they grow and offer up for sale. We've had some of their corn and, as usual, it was great.

The Albany Improvement Society will be holding a meeting on Sunday, Sept. 28 at 3 p.m. at the Town Hall. Best wishes for a happy and safe week. God Bless.

The annual Bethel Historical Society Apple and Pumpkin Festival was held as part of the community's Harvest Fest on Sept. 20 at the society's Regional History Center. Both the Dr. Mason House and the Robinson House were open to the public. The museum shop and the exhibits at the Robinson House and the book signing and museum tours at the Mason House were among the attractions. In addition, pumpkin whoopie pies were available on the side porch of the Robinson House. Cider pressing and applesauce making attracted much interest as well.

At the Mason House, Pat Stewart discussed her novel "Mollykett," based on the life of the famed Indian woman and autographed many copies of the book. Special thanks go to all the volunteers who made the day such a success: Jan Todd and Kathy Kunkle in the museum shop, Lois Kilroy and Nancy Morris for all their help with selling whoopie pies and helping with the cider and apple sauce, Jean Owen for assisting with the book signing, and Amy Davis for museum tours. Much appreciation is also due those who made the whoopie pies: Bessie Bennett, Judy Haskell, Susan Herlihy, and Lois Kilroy. Thanks, also, to Alden Kennett for the use of his cider press. All apples used for the day were from the society's orchard in the rear of the Dr. Mason House.

Fund, the board will work with the towns of Bethel, Newry and Hanover to see if a swap shop can be established at the transfer station to provide for household items and the other non-clothing items which have been a problem for the District Clothing Exchange. Such an arrangement is already in place for the towns of Greenwood and Woodstock.

Food Pantry manager Erika Penczer and volunteer Kim Shannon are looking forward to the season of food drives to stock the pantry for the winter months. They would welcome contacts from groups that would like to do a drive and can give guidance on the type of items most needed.

All are invited to the Sunday River Brewing Co. tonight (Thursday), from 5 to 7:30 p.m. for our Business After Hours sponsored by Oxford Networks. Delicious food and beverage will be available in addition to information about all of Oxford Networks' great services.

Many thanks to the Bethel Inn & Country Club for hosting our monthly Community Networking Breakfast.

It is wonderful to live in a community with so much spirit. Many thanks to all of you who have decorated in the harvest/scarecrow theme and who helped in some way to make the sixth annual Bethel Harvest Fest and Chowdah Cook-off a success.

First, a huge thanks to our sponsors. Oxford Networks, who has been our premier sponsor for so many of our events this year, came through for this event, too. Their generosity made possible the free horse-drawn wagon rides that so many enjoyed throughout the day. U.S. Foodservice joined us for the first time this year as the Chowdah Cook-off sponsor. They donated paper goods and two terrific gentlemen, Ken Poulin and Brian Alley agreed to the daunting task of judging the chowdahs and apple pie. Arthur Hicks of C.B. Kenworth was the sponsor of the wonderful entertainment and hats off to Don Murphy for coordinating it. Hancock Lumber's support was also very much appreciated, helping to underwrite some of the costs related to the festival. Additional thanks are extended to the Pulp and Paperworkers Association, who performed the puppet show "The Forest Grows Back Again," and to the Evan's Notch District of the White Mountain National Forest who provided Smokey the Bear.

The participation from our area businesses has been incredible. Many thanks to Maine Line Products, Bethel Furniture Stock, Chadbourne Tree Farms, Hancock Lumber, Timberlake's Home Store at the Mayville House, and Briar Lea Inn & Restaurant for their willingness to offer tours of their facilities on Friday. The Inn at the Rosay provided lodging to our chainsaw sculptor and his wife, Ted and Sharon Walker. The area is so festive looking thanks to the following who created harvest/scarecrow displays: Pooh Corner Farm and Greenhouses (Forest and Carole Duplessis and Kathy Tibbetts) and Mountain Greenery (Leslie Kavanagh, Sally Sawyer and Kathy Ford) who decorated the "gateway signs," Java House, Finish Line Pizza, Peterson's Pet Stop, Philbrook Place, ChoSun, Timeless Treasures, Key Bank, Linda Clifford Scottish and Irish Merchant, Ruthie's, Brooks Bros., Country Sampler, Maine Line Products, the businesses in the Stone Mountain Mortgage building, Bethel Inn & Country Club, Northeast Bank, the Bethel Town Office and Crossroads Diner and Deli.

The first annual Apple Pie Contest yielded some delicious baked treats, and we thank everyone who entered. We hope this event "catches on" and that we enjoy increased participation in coming years. Congratulations to the following winners: First place in the traditional apple pie category went to Darlene Baker and honorable mention went to Betty Gilbert. In the nontraditional category, the blue ribbon went to Carol Nielsen, and in the professional category, the first-place pie was presented to the Cinnamon Stick Café. Many thanks to all the entrants.

The anticipation from eager chowdah eaters was building throughout the morning and the line was long at 11:45 as the participating restaurants finalized their presentations and readied their serving stations. An estimated 2,200 servings of chowdah were enjoyed. Many thanks to the following participating restaurants: Bethel Inn & Country Club, Birches Grill & Banquets, Briar Lea Inn & Restaurant, ChoSun, Good Food Store, Java House, Sudbury Inn, S.S. Milton and Sunday River Brewing Co. Congratulations to the Judge's Choice, winning the coveted Chowdah Pot, the Birches Grill & Banquets and honorable mention goes to the Briar Lea. The "People's Choice Award" went to the Sudbury Inn.

This event would not have been possible without the help of our dedicated volunteers. Many thanks to: Dave Freiday (and his brother and wife), Bill Tout, Doug Zinchuk, Dillon Gillies, Al Cressy, Sarah Caret, Carrie Nelson, Marcy White, Susan Herlihy, Belina and Kim Kelly, Tom Kelly, and the Sudbury Inn.

Barbara Douglass, Mike Brown, Ginny Walker, and Bruce Powell. It was a very busy day, and their help made it run a lot more smoothly.

One valuable addition to this year's Harvest Fest was John Vlahides, a highly qualified professional chowdah judge, who is also a valuable media contact for the Bethel area.

A 1984 graduate of Gould Academy, John is now a nationally published food and travel writer.

Our next event is the sixth annual Antique Show and Sale, scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 11, at Telstar Regional High School gymnasium. We still have booth space available. Please call us at 824-2282 for details.

VERNON W. INMAN

Vernon Walter Inman perished on Sunday Sept. 14, 2003 in a plane crash near Greenville. This tragedy silenced the "Voice in The Tower" at Fryeburg Fair.

He was born in Lewiston on Sept. 12, 1925, first son of Roxanna (Baker) and Walter L. Inman. In 1943, he graduated from West Paris High School, where he was active in public speaking, debating, baseball and orchestra. He attended the University of Maine at Orono before enlisting in the United States Army.

He served as a B.A.R man in the 87th Division, 1st Squad, 2nd platoon, Co. E, 347th Infantry Regiment. He was in the Battle of the Bulge, under Gen. Patten. He was wounded and received two purple hearts, The Bronze Star; Combat Infantry and other services awards. Upon discharge from the service, he attended Bryant-Stratton Business College in Boston.

On Aug. 24, 1947, he married Miriam (Pirainen) Inman at the Finnish Congregational Church, in West Paris. They lived in Amesbury, Mass., briefly then returned to West Paris where they brought up their family.

He will be remembered as postmaster at Paris, as well as other postal positions in West Paris and Bryant Pond. Earlier he was a lapidist at Perham's Mineral Store in West Paris, a bricklayer at Oxford Paper Co. in Rumford and other union masonry jobs. For several years he and his brother, Milton, operated "Inman Bros. Masonry." Winter he worked for Mt. Abram Ski Area.

He had been a very civic-minded individual, and admired by many for his talents as moderating at town meetings, entertaining, story-telling, announcer at Soap Box Derby races.

He was president of the West Paris Cemetery Association and vice president of the West Paris Historical Society. He was a member of Granite Masonic Lodge 182, Kora Temple Shrine, Ring-McKeen American Legion Post, V.F.W., West Paris Fire Department, Androscoggin Postmasters, National Association of the Postmasters and West Paris Universalist Church, and Master of Ceremonies of the Parisians Orchestra.

He is a former member of the Boy Scout Troop 1320, Troop Committees, West Paris Recreation Board, Pioneer Board, Swinging Bears Square Dance Club, and president of the "Greenwood City Yacht Club," at "Bikini Beach." He also enjoyed spending time fishing and hunting with friends and family. He was involved in many other activities too numerous to mention.

He is survived by two sons, Marshall of Fairbanks, Alaska and Walter and companion Joyce Lowell of West Paris; two daughters, Virginia Aridas of West Paris and Lady Lake Fla. and Vivian and Charles Sanborn of North Conway, N.H.; grandchildren, Todd, Anthony, Brant, Caroline, Vernon G. and Walter Jr.; his brother and best friend, Milton and wife Eleanor of Greenwood City; sister-in-law, Mary Inman of South Paris; and many cousins. He was predeceased by a son, Michael; his wife, Miriam; a brother, Byron; and his son-in-law, William Aridas, who has since died from injuries at the same accident.

Memorial services were held Tuesday, Sept. 23, at the Jackson-Silver American Legion Post 68, Gore Road, Locke Mills, with Joseph Per-ham officiating. Burial was at Wayside Cemetery, West Paris. Donations in Vern's memory may be made to the Boston Burn Hospital, c/o Kora Shrine, 11 Sabattus Street, Lewiston, ME 04240 or to the Boy Scouts of America, Pine Tree Council, 125 Auburn Street, Portland, ME 04103

ELWOOD A. TITUS

Elwood Andrews Titus, 86, of South Paris, died Friday Sept. 19, 2003 at the Stephens Memorial Hospital.

He was born in Bryant Pond on Feb. 23, 1917, the son of Leroy and Eva Andrews Titus. He was a graduate of Paris High School in 1936 and the Maine School of Commerce in Auburn during 1937.

He faithfully served our country during World War II in the Pacific, specifically in New Guinea, Philippines, and Japan. After the service, Mr. Titus worked with his father at L.W. Titus Store and later owned Titus Motors with his brothers. He had also worked at Goodwin's Dairy. Mr. Titus was the owner and proprietor of Titus Country Store and Titus Texaco in Welchville (which more recently was Betsey's and now the Big Apple).

After Retirement, he continued working for SAD17 as a school bus driver for the handicapped until the age of 75. He was a lifetime member of the American Legion Foster Carroll Post 72 and past commander for two years, a lifetime member of the VFW, a member of the Masonic Lodge 94 in South Paris, a member of SCORE, and a longtime active member of the First Congregational Church in South Paris.

He is survived by a son, Warren Titus and his wife Karen of Treasure Island, Fla.; a daughter, Lynette Gatchell of Norway; four grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; two brothers, John Titus Sr. of Norway and Leroy Titus and his wife Virginia of Norway; and one sister, Gertrude Carroll of Greensboro, N.C.

Memorial services were held Tuesday, Sept. 23, at the First Congregational Church in South Paris. Interment followed at Riverside Annex Cemetery, with military honors conducted by American Legion Post 72 of South Paris.

JOSEPH A. HATSTAT

Joseph (Joe) Alphonso Hatstat, 84, died Thursday, Sept. 18, at Mt. Ascutney Hospital in Windsor, Vt., after a battle with cancer.

He was born on Jan. 15, 1919, in Portland, the son of Blanche Ellen (Dione) Hatstat. He was the eldest of nine children.

He was a hard worker from the time he was a young boy having to leave school and work in the potato fields or in the woods with the loggers. He later worked for a sled factory and for Wilner's Wood Heel Factory before working in the Portsmouth Shipyard just before WWII broke out.

He was later drafted to serve in the U.S. Army.

He married Laura Margaret Wilson and they lived a time in Maine and then moved to Vermont to live near her family.

He worked at the trade of tree nursery and greenhouse flowers at Mitchell's Greenhouse in Williamstown, Vt. He used his knowledge all his life in planting many trees and flowers at his own home as well as planting trees for others in the community.

In 1951, Joe and Laura moved to Windsor, Vt., where he began his work for Cone Automatic Machine Company. He later did brief stints at Pippin's and Joy Manufacturing, but most of his career was spent at Cone's. He was a very active Union man for the United Electric Workers, serving a few terms as union president, and in his retirement years going to bat for members' rights with pensions.

During his years at Cone's, Joe was also in a partnership with Stanley Estey in a used auto parts business often working long hours in the "junkyard" after his day at Cone's. He also loved to plant his gardens and grow lovely flowers, and he very much enjoyed feeding his birds. He was also a "water witch" and from time to time helped neighbors locate good well sites. He loved old cars and to bake "goodies" for his friends or make them fudge and candies.

Joe was predeceased by his wife in 1964. He married Christine (Pinkham) Rich in 1965.

He is survived by his children, David Lee, Jo Ann, and Mark Wilson. He is also survived by his wife, Christine, and her children, William Rich, Victoria Green and Loretta James; many grandchildren, nieces and nephews; his sisters, Juanita Haines and Louise Willey; and his brother, Earlton Everett Hatstat. His brothers, Ralph, Manville and John, and his sisters, Elizabeth and Blanche Annie, predeceased him.

Graveside services will be held at St. Francis of Assisi Cemetery in Windsor, Vt., on Saturday, Sept. 27. In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to the cancer fund. Contact Eternal Flame Crematorium, 239 Old Ferry Road, Brattleboro, VT 05301 for further details.

She did private-duty nursing for a time and then worked at Stephens Memorial Hospital for several years.

She was born in Mexico, on April 18, 1914, a daughter of Victor and Ella Taylor Hodsdon. She graduated from Gould Academy in Bethel and later attended and graduated from Trull School of Nursing in Biddeford in 1937.

She was a member of the Extension Service of Oxford County and member of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

She enjoyed gardening and painting.

She is survived by two sons, Edmund and Gilbert, both of Woodstock; one daughter, Barbara Haskell of Wareham, Mass.; a brother, Jessie Hodsdon of Rumford; nine grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren. She was predeceased by a son, James S. Haskell Jr.

Graveside services were held Wednesday, Sept. 24, at Mt. Auburn Cemetery in Auburn.

RUBY P. COFFIN

Ruby P. Coffin, 82, of West Paris died Thursday, Sept. 18, 2003 at Norway Rehabilitation and Living Center where she had been a resident since June.

She was born in Milton Plantation on Nov. 12, 1921, the second child of Florus and Floris Johnson Poland. She was educated in the Milton one-room school and graduated from Woodstock High School with the Class of 1940. On Feb. 14, 1942, she married James P. Coffin of Woodstock, who predeceased her on May 20, 1998.

She had been a homemaker all of her married life with the exception of the World War II years when she was employed at the "Plastic" Mill in West Paris.

She was a charter member of the West Paris Legion Auxiliary and a member of the Bryant Pond Baptist Church.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Norman (Jean) Millett of Greenwood; two sons, Charles of Waterford and Dale of West Paris; a sister, Mrs. Levi (Gwendolyn) Sherwin of Rumford; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Eva Poland of Bethel; seven grandchildren, Maureen M. Heath of Waterford, Sherry L. Millett, Brenda M. LaCroix and Stephen M. Millett all of Greenwood, Jeffrey D. Coffin of South Paris, James M. Coffin of Norway and James E. Coffin of Norway; and six great-grandchildren. She was predeceased by her husband; her parents; two brothers, F. Edward and Alberto (Shine) Poland; a granddaughter, Melanie Sue Coffin; and a great-grandson, Austin O. Millett.

Graveside services were held Tuesday, Sept. 23, at Greenleaf Cemetery in Milton Plantation.

RUTH E. HASKELL

Ruth E. Haskell, 89, of Woodstock, died Saturday, Sept. 20, 2003 at Stephens Memorial Hospital.

She was born in Mexico, on April 18, 1914, a daughter of Victor and Ella Taylor Hodsdon. She graduated from Gould Academy in Bethel and later attended and graduated from Trull School of Nursing in Biddeford in 1937.

She did private-duty nursing for a time and then worked at Stephens Memorial Hospital for several years. She then worked at Tobey Hospital in Wareham, Mass. for many years and retired from there.

She was a member of the Extension Service of Oxford County and member of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

She enjoyed gardening and painting.

She is survived by two sons, Edmund and Gilbert, both of Woodstock; one daughter, Barbara Haskell of Wareham, Mass.; a brother, Jessie Hodsdon of Rumford; nine grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren. She was predeceased by a son, James S. Haskell Jr.

Graveside services were held Wednesday, Sept. 24, at Mt. Auburn Cemetery in Auburn.
